Dear Friends,

On behalf of the Missouri School Counselor Association, it is my honor to extend this invitation to attend the 66th Annual MSCA Fall Conference, “Breaking Barriers: Instilling Hope”, November 2nd-4th, 2014 at Tan-Tar-A Resort in Osage Beach, Missouri. Thanks to the diligence of the MSCA Program Committee and Vice-Presidents, this year’s conference will again feature a variety of break-out sessions that focus on all the “Special Populations” professional school counselors have within their schools and their communities.

Sunday afternoon (New Time: First General Session begins at 1:15 p.m.), MSCA is proud to welcome Dave Pelzer as our keynote speaker. As a child, Dave was rescued from an abusive home and placed in a series of foster homes until he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force at the age of 18. Against all odds, Dave flourished in the U.S. Air Force, and has won international acclaim as the author of seven inspirational books including, A Child Called “It”. His keynote, “Taking the Lead in Your Life”, will reflect on how to make the most of your life and the lives of those around you. On Tuesday morning, our conference will close with a keynote presentation by Jed Hafer. Jed’s message, “Practical Tools for Empowering Kids with Challenges”, will provide quick tips and strategies that professional school counselors can implement when working with our most challenging students.

On Saturday, November 1st, prior to the start of conference, MSCA will host its Saturday Institute with a two-topic format—one presenter in the morning and one presenter in the afternoon. MSCA is pleased to welcome researcher, professor, and program director at University of Central Missouri, Dr. Brad Mears. His workshop, “Understanding and Supporting Brain-Based Differences”, will provide an understanding of the development of the human brain, and how brain development impacts behavior, individual differences, and how we learn. Our second topic features Roxanne Renee’ Pendleton, an author, hospice chaplain, and resiliency trainer. Roxanne will present two practical, upbeat, interactive sessions on self-care for those in caring professions. Roxanne’s first session, “7 Secrets for Resilient Living”, focuses on the impact of modern life on the human brain, and a set of basic, daily lifestyle choices that have been proven to both protect against and heal clinical depression, anxiety, and compassion fatigue. Roxanne’s second session, “How to Stay Sane (When the World Around You Isn’t)”, is packed with proven tips and practices for maintaining your own peace of mind while successfully dealing with difficult people and difficult situations.

Exciting changes to this year’s conference begin with the Sunday scheduling format. The first general session and keynote speaker will begin at 1:15 p.m. on Sunday, November 2nd, 2014. Immediately following keynote, Dave Pelzer, MSCA will host its Professional Recognition Awards Ceremony in Salon A. Everyone is encouraged and invited to attend the 45-minute celebration. This event will honor our MSCA state and district level award winners. The exhibit hall will also be open at this time for those individuals preferring to shop and snack. Our conference project is Special Olympics: Project UNIFY. Special Olympics: Project UNIFY provides programs that engage schools in creating school climates of inclusion, acceptance, respect, and human dignity for all students with and without disabilities. MSCA will also be collecting soda tabs for the Ronald McDonald House. Drop boxes will be located throughout the conference for you to drop those tops. Please review “What’s New at the Fall Conference” for more information on the new additions to this year’s conference.

The 2014 MSCA Fall Conference is one of the best professional development conferences available for school counselors in the state of Missouri—perhaps even in the nation! Attending the MSCA conference shows your dedication to your students and your district’s comprehensive school counseling program. When you approach your professional development committees or administrator with your request to attend this conference, let them know that you are attending an event that not only specializes in school counseling topics, but one that also provides you with the tools and knowledge necessary to support 21st century learners.

The 2014 MSCA Fall Conference, “Breaking Barriers: Instilling Hope” promises to be packed with fantastic opportunities for gathering resources, networking, and professional growth. I look forward to seeing you this November!

Nancy Richey, MSCA President
MSCA is offering two dynamic sessions for SI. This is an excellent opportunity to get additional professional development before the opening session of the 2014 MSCA Fall Conference. School counselors will receive research-based information to take back to their schools.

Dr. Brad Mears

“Understanding and Supporting Brain-Based Differences.” This fun and interactive session will take an in-depth approach to understanding the development of the human brain which will increase your understanding of behavior, individual differences, and how we learn.

He will discuss how an individual student’s interpretation of every situation changes brain chemistry and impacts your effectiveness as a counselor. Individual differences discussed will include ADD, Autism, and gender.

Dr. Brad Mears is a researcher, professor, and program director at the University of Central Missouri. He also serves as a board member for the Midwest Clinic for Autism Spectrum Disorders. Brad found his passion for developmental neurology as an early childhood special education and elementary teacher. He completed his Ed.D. at the University of Northern Colorado in 2000, focusing on early childhood and childhood developmental neurology and completing his dissertation on brain-based learning practices that can also improve the physical activity habits and healthy development of the total child. Soon after the completion of this program, Brad began making a large scale impact in the lives of educators, parents, and children around the world.

Roxanne Reneé Pendleton

Author, hospice chaplain and resiliency trainer, Roxanne Reneé Pendleton will present two practical, upbeat, interactive sessions on self-care for those in caring professions. Roxanne’s first session, “7 Secrets for Resilient Living,” focuses on the impact of modern life on the human brain and a set of basic, daily lifestyle choices that have been proven to both protect against and heal clinical depression, anxiety, and compassion fatigue.

Roxanne’s second session, “How to Stay Sane (When the World Around You Isn’t),” is packed with proven tips and practices for maintaining your own peace of mind while successfully dealing with difficult people and difficult situations. You will leave with information and tools you can use immediately to make your life better. If someone or something in your world causes you significant stress, this is the training you need!

In her honest and inspiring book, Laughing Again: A Survivor’s Guide to Healing Depression, Roxanne candidly shares her own excruciating journey to wellness through the dark wilderness of major clinical depression, panic and anxiety disorder, and PTSD. Copies of Laughing Again will be available for purchase immediately following the second session at a special conference rate of $10 each.

“Breaking Barriers: Instilling Hope”

Regions get ready for the Conference Challenge! Every day we face challenges with our students and staff and we work at breaking down those barriers and instilling hope in our students. The conference project does just that, we will be working with the Special Olympics: Project UNIFY. It is all about social inclusion in our schools for students with special needs and how it gives hope and breaks down barriers for both the special needs student and those working with them. This year we are going to have a Conference Challenge so that regions have the opportunity to be recognized for all of the hard work they do to make conference successful. For more details go to www.moschoolcounselor.org and see conference information.

Special Olympics: Project UNIFY
MSCA 2014 Conference Project

Special Olympics: Project UNIFY is a program that engages schools in creating school climates of inclusion, acceptance, respect, and human dignity for all students with and without disabilities. It is made up of three major components: Inclusive Sports, providing all students the opportunity to participate in sports activities alongside one another; Youth Leadership and Advocacy, students of all abilities are given opportunities to take on leadership roles to promote inclusive activities in their school and community; and Whole-School Engagement, all students will have the opportunity to be exposed to the messages and experiences of authentic inclusion through a school-wide awareness and education activities. This year the Conference Project will be supported by a variety of events such as the silent auction and the 50/50 raffle. We are challenging each region to think outside of the box when donating items or baskets for the auction.
